Mother of fire victim seeks $3 million damages

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The mother of a 21-month-old boy who died in a March 28 Waveland foster home fire has filed a $3 million damage suit against the foster parents, City of Waveland, and Hancock County Welfare Department.

The suit was filed Thursday in Hancock County Circuit Court by Lisa M. Pesta, a resident of Bay St. Louis, on behalf of her infant son Scottie Lee Pesta, who died along with five other foster children in a Sears Avenue tragedy.

In addition to the welfare department and the city, the defendants in the suit include Larry and Sandy Giveans, 436 Sears Ave., Waveland, Miss.

The suit alleges that the Giveans couple "...are liable to the plaintiff for the death of the infant...by reason of their gross and wanton negligence in maintaining a fire hazard on the premises...."

Further the suit alleges "...are liable to the plaintiff for the death of the infant...to (1) furnish him reasonably safe and adequate housing; (2) to adequately supervise and protect him from danger; and (3) to take adequate safeguards that he not suffer physical harm from accident; their breach and failure in which duties were an efficient and proximate cause of his injury and death...."

The suit alleges "...the Hancock County Welfare Department is liable to the plaintiff for the death of the infant, Scottie Lee Pesta, by reason of their gross and wanton negligence in allowing the infant to be housed in housing in which there was a fire hazard...."

The suit contends the Welfare Department failed in "...its duty to furnish him safe and adequate housing; and the duty to select adequately trained and motivated personnel who would properly supervise and protect the said infant from danger and to take adequate safeguards that he would not suffer physical harm from accident...."

The defendant accuses the City of Waveland of "...gross and wanton negligence in its failure to properly control and extinguish the fire which had commenced earlier and which had been reported to the Waveland Fire department earlier...."

She contends in her suit the earlier fire which she alleges was not extinguished properly "...was a contributing cause to the conflagration which resulted in the injury and death of the infant, Scottie Lee Pesta...."

The plaintiff itemizes her $3 million in damages as follows:

"1. On behalf of the estate of the infant, Scottie Lee Pesta, for pain, suffering and mental anguish — $500,000.

"2. On behalf of the infant, Scottie Lee Pesta, for his death — $1,000,000.

"3. On behalf of the plaintiff individually for pain, suffering, mental anguish — $500,000.

"4. On behalf of the plaintiff individually for loss of love and companionship — $500,000.

"5. On behalf of the plaintiff for loss of support — $500,000."

In addition the plaintiff has asked the court to issue an immediate order "...designed to protect the scene of the fire from alteration until such time as the pertinent facts and circumstances of the fire can be investigated by the plaintiff's experts...."

In requesting the order, the suit states "...the scene of the conflagration contains essential valuable and irreplaceable evidence of the facts and circumstances pertaining to the fire and the injury and death of the infant Scottie Lee Pesta, and plaintiff fears that said evidence (could) be lost and rendered forever unavailable in the trial of the plaintiff's action...."

On Saturday, after reviewing a copy of the lawsuit, Michael D. Haas, Hancock County Youth Court referee, stated,

"I was surprised a lawsuit would be filed even before our local, state and federal authorities have had an opportunity to complete their investigation."

"In my opinion, it is going to be extremely difficult to prove some of the allegations of this lawsuit. I have every confidence in our local sheriff's department, Waveland Police and Fire departments, and other public authorities conducting the investigation of the fire."

"I never heard of suing a local Welfare Department. In my opinion, it is not a legal entity subject to suit and would be a part of the State Department of Welfare, which is a subdivision of the State of Mississippi, and part of our Mississippi State Government."

Judge Haas, although not named in the suit, works closely with the Hancock County Welfare Department in his capacity as Youth Court judge.

Representing the plaintiff is Bay St. Louis Attorney Ann Clark Lazara, a resident of Waveland.

No evidence of arson found in investigation

By ELLIS CUEVAS

In a statement issued by the Waveland Fire Chief, there is "no evidence of arson" and the "origin or cause of the fatal fire remains unknown" on a fire in which six foster children perished on March 28 in that city.

In the fatal fire, Larry and Sandra Giveans, their 14-year-old natural son Robbie, and a 9-month-old foster child identified as Christina escaped the blaze which caused heavy damage to the rear of the residence located at 436 Sears Avenue, Waveland.

The following is a text of the statement issued Friday:

"THE FOLLOWING IS A STATEMENT BY THE WAVELAND FIRE CHIEF"

"The Waveland Fire Department and Police Department, assisted by the State Fire Marshall, Highway Patrol Investigative Unit, and the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Agency have completed their investigation of the fatal fire in Waveland on March 28, 1986."

"The investigation has revealed no evidence of arson. The origin and cause of the fatal fire remains unknown."

"The cause of the first fire earlier that night is also not known. At the time that the Waveland Fire Department officials left the scene the first fire was out."

The six children who perished in the pre-dawn fire were Scottie Pesta, 21 months; Robert J. Scelson Jr., two years-seven months; brothers Terrance Skinner, four years-eight months; and Jonathan Skinner, three years-eight months; and sisters Rosemarie Smith, three years-five months; and Susan Smith, 18 months.

Injunction to delay three judge elections

BY DENA BISNETTE

Three judge elections in Hancock County will be delayed by a federal court injunction.

According to a letter from State Attorney General Edwin Lloyd Pittman, the elections must be cleared by the U.S. Department of Justice as complying with the guidelines of the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

The injunction is the result of a lawsuit, Henry Kirksey v. William Allain, which challenged any Mississippi judicial districts with more than one judge and any judgeships created by statutes not precleared with the Justice Department since 1965.

In Hancock County, the injunction does not apply to and will not delay elections for the Circuit Judge post now held by James Thomas or Chancery Judge posts now held by William Stewart and Jason Floyd, Hancock County Election Commission Secretary Charles Gottschalk said Saturday.

The primary for those elections has been set for June 3.

He said Kirksey's suit applies to some of the other elections because the number of judges had been increased.

Elections that will be delayed until they receive federal clearance as complying with the Voting Rights Act include one Chancery Judge position currently held by J.S. Morris and two Circuit Judge positions, one held by Kosta Vlahos and the other recently vacated by Ruble Griffin when he resigned to run for a state post.

"It's going to cause us to conduct an additional set of primaries and will cost the county approximately $10,000 more," Gottschalk explained.

An additional primary for Republican candidates for Griffin's position could also add to the cost.

Gottschalk said a Hancock County candidate, William L. Frisbie, has already qualified as a Republican and a primary may be needed if a Harrison County candidate qualifies to run against him.

He said Republican primaries are not often needed in Hancock County but commented that one for this particular judgeship appears likely.

Gottschalk said a date for the additional elections has not been set.

Wastewater board questions engineering cost changes

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District is questioning charges by an engineering firm working on the third and fourth segments of a five-part project that will eventually link the Waveland and Bay St. Louis sewerage treatment systems.

The firm, Reynolds, Smith and Hills, is based in Jacksonville, Fla., but is working on the project in association with Ed Lewis of Jackson.

Wastewater District Board Chairman John Longo Jr. questioned the firm's representative, David Herndon, at this week's meeting and has called a special meeting for 6:30 p.m. Wednesday to further discuss the matter.

Parts of Segment III have been moved to later phases of the project, requiring some recalculations of charges.

Longo particularly argued with changes on the charges for the improvement of the Waveland wastewater treatment plant, because the firm has asked Waveland to pay 39 percent of the charges on some items which do not apply to the city.

The three-entity project is being funded by a combination of federal, state and local funds.

The local share is being split among the county, Waveland and Bay St. Louis. Each city has been designated to pay for improvements or additions to its existing system, while the county will pay for the construction of sewerage collection systems in four subdivisions.

Longo asked for specific information as to why a start-up cost at the plant has been changed from $0 to $71,000, whether or not some additional training procedures for the plant staff are needed and exactly how much they will cost, and whether the district is unnecessarily being charged for travel from Jacksonville to Jackson.

Board member Victor Frankiewicz, who represents Bay St. Louis, questioned costs quoted for the firm's on-site representative during the project, particularly since the district is concerned about having a full-time resident representative to supervise construction.

"Just because it's grant eligible and we're only paying 25 percent doesn't mean the district is any less concerned," he said.

District Administrator Ethel Schott said the design costs appear to be in line with original calculations but said some of the post-design costs may have been raised more than necessary when Segments III and IV were split into Segments III, IV and V.

Longo agreed to postpone the matter until Wednesday because part of the costs are supposed to be paid by the county and the board's county representative, A.A. Kellar, was absent from the meeting.

Supervisors miss deadline for closing illegal dumps

BY DENA BISNETTE

Two Hancock County supervisors have been unable to meet a State Bureau of Pollution Control deadline for closing illegal dumps on 16th Section land.

One dump is located in Pearlinton and is under the jurisdiction of Beat Two Supervisor A.A. Kellar. The other two are located in Standard and Necaise Crossing and fall under the jurisdiction of Beat Four Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner.

Ladner and Kellar met with Bureau officials in Jackson Tuesday to discuss why they failed to close the dumps by a December 31, 1985, deadline.

Ladner said he now plans to ask the board Monday for use of a trackhoe jointly owned by all five beats to help comply with temporary measures suggested by the Bureau.

He said hurricane clean-up expenses and other problems had taken priority over the dumps during the latter half of 1985.

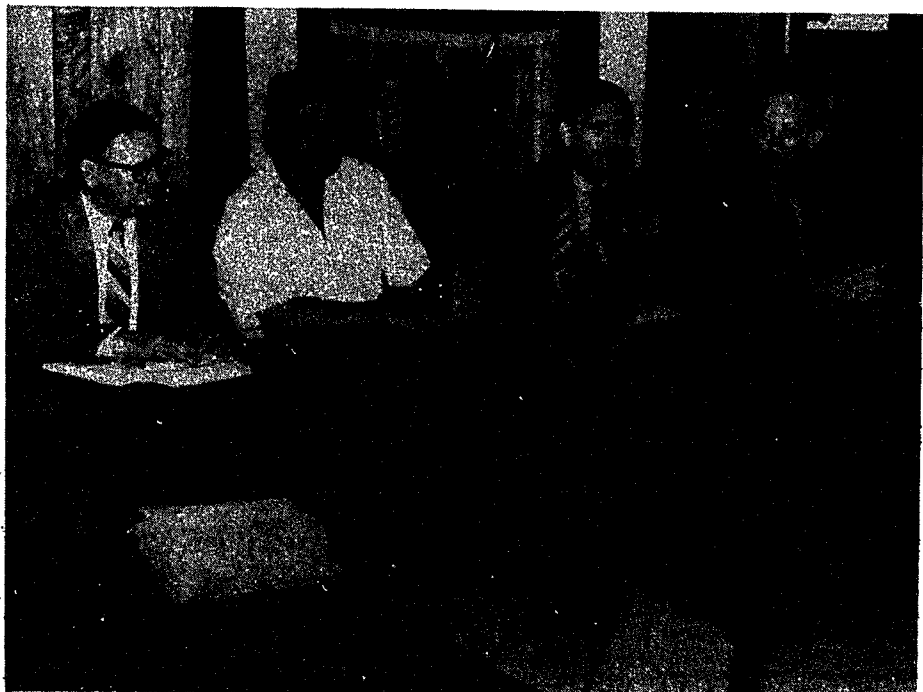

"I think Bureau of Pollution Control was receptive to that, but they did decide that we need to use dumpsters at Standard and Necaise Crossing and limit what's dumped there to household garbage."

He said he plans to request the trackhoe to cover the existing dumps and will divert his county crews from their usual daily tasks for the dump clean-up.

Kellar could not be reached for comment, but Ladner said he has had a county employee stationed at the Pearlinton site to enforce the use of dumpsters since they were obtained last year at the Bureau's request.

Ladner plans to do likewise at Standard and Necaise Crossing.

He said he plans to begin covering the dumps with soil in order to comply with pollution control guidelines, but expects the process to cost about $55,000 in road and bridge and federal revenue sharing funds.

Pops concert scheduled in Coast Coliseum

The annual Pops Concert by the Gulf Coast Symphony Orchestra under the direction of James Shannon will be played on Friday, April 11 at 8 p.m. in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum.

The featured artist will be pianist Ronnie Kole with his trio.

Ronnie Kole is a trained classical pianist who found that his way of playing lent itself even better to the jazz, Dixieland, Blues and soul of New Orleans.

He played for a number of years in clubs and hotels in New Orleans, but it wasn't until he left New Orleans and hit the concert trail that his fame as a jazz musician grew.

Tours of the East Coast, Las Vegas, Hollywood, and several tours of Europe established his fame as one of the premiere pianists of our time.

His ability to choose partners on his trips and other combos has established a style that is Kole's own.

The symphony orchestra will be heard playing a goodly amount of music in the light classical, Broadway musical, light jazz and rock vein. A group of musicians from the Jazz Society will play at intermission.

Seating will be at tables or in the balcony, and reservations are required. Call 388-1976 for information.

Community House director to address Pass Methodists

First United Methodist Church, Pass Christian, will have as guest speaker for Sunday morning worship service Mrs. Nancy Martin, executive director of the Moore Community House, Biloxi.

Mrs. Martin is a native of Mississippi. She is a graduate of Millsaps College and holds a public relations master's degree from the University of Southern Mississippi.

She has held many offices in the local church district and conference. She was on the Conference Task Force on World Hunger and visited Senegal, West Africa, to help interpret World Hunger Mission projects. Moore Community House is related to the Board of Global Ministries of the United Methodist Church. Mrs. Martin feels that United Methodist Agencies such as Moore Community House represent the "Church in the community and the Gospel in action."

Following the worship hour, there will be a covered dish dinner at the church. A couple, Mr. and Mrs. Monk, who have been working with Mrs. Martin in recent months at Moore Community House, will speak briefly after the dinner about their experiences while "in mission" at Moore Community House.

 Your gentle face and patient smile with sadness we recall;

You had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all.

The voice is mute and stilled the heart that loved us well and true; Ah, bitter was the trial to part from one so good as you.

You are not forgotten, Loved One, nor will you ever be; As long as life and memory last we will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore, as time goes by we miss you more.

Your loving smile, your gentle face, no one can fill your vacant place.

Correction

In Thursday's edition of the Sea Coast Echo, a story on the board of supervisors vote on reopening the Ulman Avenue incorrectly listed Board President A.A. Kellar as voting against reopening.

Kellar voted to reopen the pier along with Supervisors Sam Periniario, Bert Courge and Roger Dale Ladner. Beat Five Supervisor James Travira was absent when the vote was taken.

The Echo apologizes for the error.

Legislature okays election law reform

The Mississippi Legislature Wednesday approved by a vote of 118 to 3 in the House and a vote of 51 to 1 in the Senate a sweeping revision of Mississippi's election laws.

Secretary of State Dick Molpus commended the final passage by the Legislature of the landmark bill.

Molpus credited the leadership of Representative Tim Ford and Senator Bill Harpole as being instrumental to the passage of the 220 page bill.

"Elections Chairmen Ford and Harpole took up the challenge of revising our chaotic election laws and they have accomplished their mission with the help of Representative Ashley Atkinson and Isaiah Fredericks, Senator Hob Bryan and others," stated Molpus.

"The result will be better administered elections and improved access to the election process for all citizens of this state."

Significant new measures in the reform legislation include an extension in polling hours, summary forms of constitutional amendments to be placed on ballots, automated voting devices, revised procedures for absentee balloting and annual training for election commissioners and pollworkers.

Strengthened campaign finance disclosure laws were adopted as well. For the first time political action committees will have to register and file regular reports on their sources of income and contributions to candidates.

Also, the use of lotteries and other contests sponsored to encourage persons either to vote or to refrain from voting was outlawed.

State laws that had been overturned by court decisions were revised to conform with controlling case law.

A reduction in the number of pollworkers, a common qualification date for independents and party primary candidates, and more standardization of procedures for general, primary and municipal elections were also included.

"Another important and useful aspect of this reform will be a reorganized election code," said Molpus. "It is essential that election officials and the voting public be able to locate the law when they need it."

The legislation was the product of a two-year effort by legislators and Molpus to upgrade Mississippi election laws.

In the fall of 1985, interim study committees appointed by Ford, chairman of the House Apportionment and Elections Committee, and Harpole, chairman of the Senate Elections Committee, met to consider recommendations produced by an Election Law Task Force sponsored by Molpus.

These interim committees developed the legislation which was introduced this session.

The impetus for reform was initiated in 1984 through the work of the 25-member Election Law Reform Task Force appointed by Molpus.

The task force, chaired by former State Senator Herman DeCell of Yazoo City, made recommendations designed to provide more efficient administration of elections, more accessibility to the election process and more integrity in the conduct of elections.

The task force consisted of legislators, including Ford and Harpole, circuit clerks, election commissioners and others involved in election administration.

The bill has an effective date of January 1, 1987. This date is contingent, however, upon review and approval by the U.S. Justice Department.

SUMMARY OF NEW PROVISIONS

A list of significant new measures embodied in the legislation is presented below. The bill will do the following:

- 1) Reorganize election laws to put all related sections together under one heading and provide a complete index.
- 2) Conform statutes to controlling judicial decisions.
- 3) Extend voting hours to permit voting from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.
- 4) Reduce the minimum number of pollworkers from six to three while allowing for additional workers where necessary.
- 5) Standardize distances at 150 feet within which distribution of campaign literature is prohibited.
- 6) Provide for mandatory annual training sessions for election commissioners and pollworkers.
- 7) Provide for a common qualification date for all candidates and simplify qualification procedures.
- 8) Provide 30 days notice prior to the qualification deadline for special elections.
- 9) Provide for summary form of constitutional amendments to be placed on ballots.
- 10) Prohibit lotteries and other contests sponsored to encourage persons either to vote or to refrain from voting.
- 11) Require that all counties use some form of automated voting device to count ballots by January 1, 1989.

12) Provide that all persons convicted of a felony, except for income tax violations and manslaughter, be denied the right to vote. Upon completion of sentence or probation, the felon may re-register to vote with proof of discharge.

13) Absentee ballots.

a) Provide for compliance with federal law to assist the elderly and handicapped in casting their vote.

b) Require only one signature of witness of absentee ballot instead of two.

c) Permit physically incapacitated persons, persons in the military or persons residing outside of the county temporarily to receive ballots 45 days prior to election, thereby standardizing the period when absentee ballots are available.

d) Clarify when persons voting absentee ballots in person must cast their ballots, and when mailed ballots must be received.

e) Extend eligibility for absentee ballots to persons with hospitalized dependents outside their county of residence on election day.

14) Provide for additional campaign finance disclosure to include the registration and regular reporting by political action committees, which presently are not required either to register or report contributions, with compliance to be monitored by the Secretary of State for state and legislative races, and county and city clerks and for local races.

15) Increase the number of municipal election commissioners in certain municipalities with larger populations.

16) Repeal anti-single shot voting provision, which presently requires an elector to vote for as many candidates as there are positions for his vote to count, regardless of whether he supports fewer candidates than there are positions available.

17) Provide for a Southern regional presidential primary.

Quotables by CUEVAS

We have mentioned before about how beautiful the flowers are this Spring and we still are receiving comments about how beautiful they are from residents and visitors.

The azaleas are fantastic; you look at one yard and say to yourself this is the best yet, and then have to change your mind when you view another down the road, and so it goes.

We noted a dogwood tree at Nicholson Avenue and the railroad crossing. It is one we have been watching for years, and now is a very large tree. It is solid white with blooms.

Bridal wreaths, wisterias, and various types of bud trees are or have been outstanding this season.

One of the finest clusters of flowers is Harold Carver's Lady Banks Rose on a wrought iron fence on South Second Street in Bay St. Louis.

It has been a solid yellow for many weeks.

Carver purchased the thornless roses from a local nursery and they are just beautiful.

It is impossible for us to take photos of all the outstanding floral displays.

We do want to thank everyone for planting flowers, because they just add so much to our communities.

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club's Annual Crepe Myrtle sale was held last week and the limited supply they had went very fast.

Mrs. Alice Newkirk, club president, called to say that due to hurricanes of last season the grower lost many of the cuttings.

John Adams of Adams' Lorraine Flowers Shops, who cooperates with the Garden Club in this venture, says that he is hoping they will have better luck next year.

The storms destroyed greenhouses with the cuttings, causing the nursery to loose hundreds of plants scheduled for the Bay-Waveland Garden Club.

The object is to have residents plant a Crepe Myrtle in every lot in our county.

Crepe Myrtles bloom at the time of the year when most other flowers have completed their cycle.

Small Business report

By Charles A. Gillis
Branch Manager
Gulfport Branch Office

"Reg-Flex" is working on behalf of small business.

"Reg-Flex" is the Regulatory Flexibility Act, enacted by Congress in 1980 to insure that federal regulators consider the impact of their regulatory programs on small businesses. In short, the regulators must take into consideration the sometimes hidden and often excessive consequences of present and proposed regulations on small businesses.

The Small Business Administration's Office of Advocacy, which oversees implementation of Reg-Flex, says the law is working relatively effectively.

In its annual report on the Act, the SBA office says "the analytical discipline imposed by Reg-Flex on rulemaking procedures has contributed to a significant change in the perspective of many federal agencies. Regulatory flexibility analyses have substantially improved regulatory decisions over the last five years."

The report also says that most federal agencies today have a sense of commitment to Reg-Flex and that many agencies have developed internal guidelines to facilitate coordination of Reg-Flex requirements with agency program goals. "Economic analyses of small business impact and consideration of alternative approaches have improved steadily," the SBA office adds.

However, Reg-Flex implementation isn't perfect. Tax regulation, important to small firms, is least likely to receive small business scrutiny. But small business is being helped by the fact that federal procurement rules and policies have recently become subject to Reg-Flex scrutiny.

The report notes that "many states are beginning to recognize the need for regulatory reform and are following the lead of the Federal Government in revising their administrative procedures to incorporate regulatory flexibility and fairness provisions."

In summary, the SBA report says "compliance with the requirements of Reg-Flex has in many cases become routine and implementation of the Act has generally been very successful."

ONE HUNDRED CLUB—Waveland Policeman James A. Varnell receives a certificate from Beverly Hogan, executive director of the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, when he was among 24 law enforcement officers from throughout Mississippi inducted into the 100 Club and the 200 Club during a recent luncheon in Jackson. The clubs were established by the Highway Safety Division, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, to recognize officers who help make Mississippi highways safer by issuing at least 100 driving under the influence (DUI) citations during the year. Varnell is a member of the 100 Club with 149 DUI citations issued during 1985. He was a 200 Club member in 1984.

Jimmy Varnell wins second award in campaign against drunk driving

Efforts by Mississippi officials to curb drunken driving were led during 1985 by 24 law enforcement officers who issued more than 100 driving under the influence (DUI) citations.

The Highway Safety Division, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, recently honored the officers at a luncheon in Jackson by inducting them into the 100 Club and the 200 Club for 1985.

The clubs were organized in January 1983 to recognize officers who make Mississippi roads and highways a safer place by issuing at least 100 or at least 200 DUI citations. Traffic fatalities in Mississippi have decreased each year since the inception of 100/200 Club recognition.

During 1982, the first year for the clubs, there were 728 traffic fatalities in Mississippi. Highway deaths dropped to 716 in 1983, 680 in 1984 and 665 in 1985.

Thomas Wilkie of the Biloxi Police Department was named to the 200 Club for 1985 with 207 citations. Bobby Grimes of the Lowndes County Sheriff's Office led 100 Club members with 150 citations.

He was followed by James A. Varnell, Waveland Police Department, 149; Roy Fullerton, Biloxi Police Department, 146; McKinley Lee Knight, Laurel Police Department, 135; Billy Wood, Lowndes County Sheriff's Office, 134; Stanley

Vance, Gulfport Police Department, 131; and Charles Lee Miley, Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol (MHSP), Starkville District, 128.

Also named to the 100 Club were Jon Clancy, Pascagoula Police Department, 126; Bobby Moore, Lowndes County Sheriff's Office, 125; Hubert "Buddy" Nabors, Lowndes County Sheriff's Office, 124; Charles D. Beavers, MHSP, Batesville District, 116; Michael Broadus, Biloxi Police Department, 115; Roger D. Chamber, MHSP, Greenwood District, 112; Robbie Cox, Harrison County Sheriff's Office, 109; and Gerald Forbes, Biloxi Police Department, 106.

Others named were Milton R. Martin, Waynesboro Police Department, 106; Billy Bryant, Biloxi Police Department, 105; Rickey Chapman, Gulfport Police Department, 105; Jerome Lee, MHSP, Meridian District, 105; Clay Daniels, Harrison County Sheriff's Office, 104; Robert Dale Mann, Tupelo Police Department, 104; Guy Gariga, Gulfport Police Department, 103; and Joe Thomason, Verona Police Department, 101.

Four of the officers—Miley, Clancy, Lee and Thomason—have been honored as 100 or 200 Club members three years in a row. Twelve others—Wilkie, Grimes, Varnell, Vance, Beavers, Broadus, Chambers, Cox, Forbes, Martin, Chapman and Gariga—have been honored twice.

Matters of Health

SPOTS AND FLOATERS IN THE EYE

Q. Looking at the sky on a sunny day, I see specks before my eyes. Should I be concerned?

A. In bright light, many people see black spots, lines, flies, spiders, hairs, or specks of dust. These are called floaters.

Floaters are not imaginary. They are caused by real spots in the vitreous (jelly) of the eye. Most of the inside of the eye is filled with clear gel and little spots or opaque areas in the gel cast shadows on the retina. This produces the sensation of spots.

Floaters are more common in people over the age of 50, after injury or surgery to the eye, and in people who are nearsighted.

For most people, floaters are not a problem. Although the spots are always there, it is easier to see them under certain conditions. Floaters are most easily seen against solid colored, brightly-lit backgrounds, such as a clear sky on a sunny day or a well-lighted drafting table. At other times—in a dimly lighted room, for example, the floaters may not be evident.

Floaters that do not change over the years are nothing to be alarmed about. They are the result of a gradual deterioration and liquefaction of the vitreous collagen. The slow deterioration leads to condensation or thickening of the gel and casts shadows on the retina.

Floaters that have not been visible before, but appear as a sudden shower, are a significant symptom and should not be ignored.

When there is a sudden shower of new floaters, people sometimes think there is dust on their glasses, or something on the windshield of their car, or they may reach for a fly in front of them and find that nothing is there.

Serious floaters may appear as innumerable tiny dots, rather than as little strings, flies, spiders, and floaters may be accompanied by little flickering or flashing lights called photopsia. Photopsia or new floaters may be serious. Either could mean that there is traction or pulling on the retina, and could be associated with retina holes or retina detachment.

Anyone who has a sudden onset of floaters, especially if they are accompanied by flickering lights, should have a very careful eye examination. Since holes can be detected only through a dilated pupil, it's important that the ophthalmologist examines the eye with the pupils fully dilated.

Then, if there is vitreous detachment, pulling on the retina, or holes, these can be seen.

At an early stage, holes often can be treated with a laser. If the holes are not found right away, or if these symptoms are neglected, the patient may develop detachment of the retina. At that point, an operation is necessary to correct the condition.

Very rarely does a person with benign floaters require surgery. Vision generally remains good, although floaters can be annoying to people who have a lot of them. In fact, no treatment is recommended generally; people seem to get used to them and learn to adjust to them with time.

In summary, there are two types of floaters. Most are not a problem. Only those that appear suddenly, or are accompanied by flickering light, are serious and require immediate medical attention.

HOUSEKEEPING

Summary Of Mississippi House Of Representatives

JACKSON—The final stages of the 1986 legislative session have been marked by frustration, hard work, spirited debate, and painful but necessary decisions on the state's enormous budget problems.

There also was a lot of uncertainty at the close of the past week over extending the session which originally was due to end following this week's work.

A resolution to extend the session and continue work on budget problems was approved by both the House of Representatives and the Senate, but lawmakers differed on the length of the extension and numerous other items.

Legislators worked into the Easter weekend in hopes of settling differences.

Besides extending the session, the House resolution sought to suspend legislative deadlines and allow late consideration of a "shopping list" of proposals to save money or raise extra dollars for the state without a general tax hike.

Overall, analysts said the state could realize $107 million or more if all of the items eventually became law. The proposal triggered two full days of debate in the House with 46 amendments offered from the floor.

After clearing the House 89-30, the resolution went to the Senate where several changes were adopted in a daylong session last Friday. Then it had to go back to the House for further consideration.

The Senate action was frustrating to House members who worked on the proposal but it was all part of the legislative process and, in a larger sense, the democratic process of government in America.

Nobody wanted to see the session go beyond the scheduled April 6 adjournment. But many legislators maintained an extension should be approved if it could help them deal better with budget problems that threatened to force drastic cuts in funding for universities, junior colleges, mental health, and other vital programs.

Contrary to some reports, legislators do not get additional salary in the event of an extension although they are entitled to a daily expense payment for each day of actual attendance.

Although budget problems remained the toughest hurdle in efforts to complete the session, the fate of several general bills remained uncertain as the current week began.

In most cases, these were bills passed earlier by the House and Senate but referred to conference committees to iron out differences.

They included proposals to establish more uniform school laws, revise state election laws, permit statewide banking, reduce assessment ratios on homes and farmlands, regulate credit life insurance, reorganize health care programs, and provide a more workable conflict-of-interest law for public officials.

Originally, the widely discussed House resolution on budget problems contained more than 60 proposals—a combination of lists drawn up earlier by two groups of House members and then recommended by a select committee on which both groups were represented.

Several of the initial items were removed from the list during the lengthy debate and other proposals were added. In all, 22 amendments were adopted in the House before the resolution went to the Senate.

The House eliminated a provision to allow consideration of revising average-daily-attendance requirements used in allocating state funds to public schools.

The House also voted to take out provisions that dealt with possible reductions in salaries of legislators and certain state employees, close charity hospitals, reduce funds for the Cooperative Extension Service, limit new construction under the State Aid Roads program, and cut back junior college nursing schools.

The House deleted a hotly debated proposal to let the state College Board close certain institutions. But an amendment was adopted to consider revising the method of selecting College Board members.

Provisions were retained in the resolution that would authorize a state lottery if approved by the people, allow local-option horseracing, provide early retirement incentives for state employees, reduce the state allotment for school administrative costs, reduce the diversion of sales tax funds to highways, and capture certain special funds.

Amendments were defeated that would have allowed the Legislature to consider raising the state gasoline tax and increase income tax collections by reducing exemptions granted in 1979.

The House also rejected floor amendments to delay implementation of public kindergartens for one year and to postpone the $1,000 pay raise authorized for school teachers this fall.

An amendment was defeated that would have allowed the Legislature to look at legalizing alcoholic beverages in all 82 counties. However, another amendment was narrowly approved providing that revenues from the markup on alcoholic beverages be placed in a special fund and distributed for use only in "wet" cities and counties.

The House action did not mean any of the 49 items in the final House version would actually become law simply because the suspension resolution was adopted. It only meant these items would be included in legislation to be considered later—and debated again—if the resolution survived the Senate.

To the Editor:

As chairman of the Senior Citizens of Waveland, Inc. Easter Egg Hunt for the past seven years, I would like to point out that Fahey's Funeral Home loaned two tents and gave six beautiful baskets to be awarded as prizes; Security Savings donated cake, and McDonald's Food supplied punch, both served free to everyone present.

American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 77 provided 55 baskets and rabbits given to 55 children from newborn through age five.

A total of 20 baskets were awarded to children over five.

Confetti eggs were sold, not raffled, at 10 cents a piece.

The charge has always been 50 cents for each child participating which does not cover the cost of eggs and supplies, nor the volunteer hours necessary to put on this event.

Library amnesty week begins

A week of amnesty for overdue books and other library materials begins today. Persons with overdue materials can return past due items to the Waveland or Bay St. Louis outside book depositories with no fines imposed.

During the week, overdue materials can be returned to the outside book returns or to special 'forgiveness' boxes which will be located inside the front door of the Waveland, Kiln and Bay St. Louis libraries.

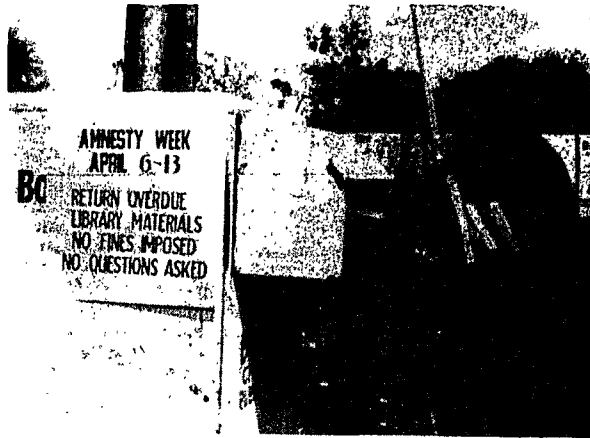

'Forgiveness' boxes will also be located at Baldree's General Store in Pearllington and in the library at Hancock North Central High School. Individuals who would like to have a receipt for the returned items should present them to a library employee. The individual is promised a return receipt and a big 'thank you,' says Rosa Jackson, head of adult circulation.

Several thousand Hancock County residents and former residents have overdue books valued at more than $30,000, according to library officials.

"We hope anyone with overdue library materials will take advantage of this offer to clear his library records and reinstate his borrowing privileges," said Prima Wusnack, library system director.

Anyone wanting to verify the status of his library account should call his local library in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, or Kiln. Persons who used the Bookmobile should call the headquarters library at 467-5282.

Book Review

USM prof's book on Bilbo takes national award

HATTIESBURG—A University of Southern Mississippi history professor has won a prestigious national award for his book about Theodore G. Bilbo, a colorful and controversial political figure of Mississippi's past.

The Organization of American Historians announced Feb. 7 that Dr. Chester M. "Bo" Morgan had been named winner of the Frederick Jackson Turner Award for his book, "Redneck Liberal: Theodore G. Bilbo and the New Deal."

The award is conferred annually for the best first book by an American historian.

"I can think of only one other historian currently teaching in the state who has won an award comparable to this," said Dr. William Scarborough, chairman of the USM Department of History. "It's one of the highest honors ever won by any of our faculty."

The three-member OAH selection committee included a Princeton University professor who is a principal biographer of Woodrow Wilson and a University of Illinois-Chicago professor who is a leading biographer of Andrew Jackson. The OAH is among the two largest national historical organizations.

"This book is a significant contribution to Mississippi history, not only because it is thoroughly researched and well written, but also because it deals with one of Mississippi's most controversial past political figures," noted USM President Dr. Aubrey K. Lucas.

Morgan, a 36-year-old director of USM's Oral History Program, noted his book was submitted in page-proof form for the Turner award competition. He said he worked hard to make the book interesting and readable, as well as scholarly. The author said he didn't know when he started his research that Bilbo would provide such a wonderful vehicle for studying Mississippi history.

"To talk about Bilbo, you have to talk about every area of Mississippi life — race, class and party," Morgan said of the former Mississippi governor and U.S. Senator.

In his book, Morgan contends that Bilbo was a "redneck liberal," rather than merely a racist demagogue.

Morgan highlights the paradox of "the nation's vilest purveyor of white supremacy twaddle" working overtime to help pass even the most controversial elements of Franklin D. Roosevelt's legislative program, a Jackson newspaper book reviewer stated.

A Hattiesburg native, Morgan earned undergraduate and master's degrees in history at USM, and conducted the bulk of the research for his book at USM's McCain Graduate Library. The library contains an extensive Bilbo manuscript collection of more than more million documents.

Morgan wrote the book as his dissertation while a doctoral candidate at Memphis State University, Dr. Charles Crawford, a history professor and director of the Memphis State Oral History Research Office, directed Morgan's dissertation.

The short, bearded historian spent three years — from 1979-82 — researching and writing about the character William Alexander Percy described as "a pert little monster."

A grant from the Eleanor Roosevelt Institute in Hyde Park, N.Y., funded research at the Roosevelt Library and a grant from the Belle McWilliams Fund of Memphis State funded research at the National Archives in Washington, D.C.

the father of 3-year-old and 1-year-old boys, said his wife, Mary Jane, taught school to help pay the family's bills while he researched and wrote the Bilbo book. Morgan worked on construction jobs and helped research a state history textbook to earn extra money.

Before the Louisiana State University Press published Morgan's book, a number of USM History Department faculty members — including Dr. Neil McMillen, Scarborough, Dr. John R. Skates and Dr. John Gonzales — read parts of the manuscript and offered valuable suggestions. Morgan said he owes a debt of gratitude to the USM History Department for supporting his research effort.

Morgan will be presented the Turner award during April at an annual meeting of the OAH in New York. He will receive $500, a medal and an inscribed certificate.

Mississippi jobless rate remains stable

JACKSON—The jobless rate for Mississippi stayed at 11.2 percent in February, according to Mississippi Employment Security Executive Director Cohen Robertson.

This rate was four-tenths of a percentage point below February 1985 but was still above the 7.8 percent national rate.

MESC figures showed 995,000 employed persons in a labor force of 1,120,700. This was an increase of 8,200 from January and an increase of 33,600 from one year ago. There were gains in both the agricultural and nonagricultural sectors.

ETV Brief

ONE-ACT OPERA

Goetz Friedrich presents his production of Richard Strauss' one-act opera "Elektra" starring Leonie Rysanek on "Great Performances" at 9 p.m. Friday, April 11, on Mississippi ETV.

The haunting production was filmed on location in an abandoned factory in the outskirts of Vienna with text, patterned after Sophocles, by Hugo von Hofmannsthal.

jobs were up 500 from January. Manufacturing jobs eased down by some 300 to 223,100 while non-manufacturing jobs edged up 800 to 619,400. Gains were felt in six manufacturing industry groups and losses were experienced in four other groups. There was a 4,100 gain in manufacturing jobs over the year. Nonmanufacturing jobs gained 19,800 over February 1985.

There were 5,981 placements made with 7,020 job openings received by Job Service Offices in February. This compared to 6,182 of 7,964 openings in January and 5,675 of 6,858 openings during February 1985.

Installment reminder notices may have incorrect information

JACKSON—Tully Miller, Internal Revenue Service district director for Mississippi, said that some taxpayers who file Form 2290 to pay the heavy vehicle use tax may be getting installment reminder notices that have incorrect information.

In a few cases the notices do not show all the payments or credits the taxpayer has made, and some notices incorrectly show interest charges.

The notices, dated March 10, 1986, are reminders that an installment payment is due March 31, 1986.

Miller said that taxpayers who receive these notices should be aware that some figures on these notices may be in error. If a notice is received showing an erroneous amount, the normal installment for March 31 should be paid.

Receipt of this notice does not mean that the installment privilege has been revoked.

If the March 31 installment has already been paid, IRS will credit to the account any additional tax or interest included in the payment and will deduct it from the final installment for the year, which is due June 30, 1986.

Payments in excess of the total tax due for the year will be refunded.

Starks converting to Dairy Queen

J. N. Grimes, co-owner and originator of "Starks Family Restaurant," reports conversion of approximately 40 Starks units to Dairy Queen/Brazier stores.

Through the Starks conversions, Grimes will become a territory operator and will own 12 units and sub-franchise the remaining stores. "We are committed to providing our customers with quality food products and friendly service in clean, pleasant surroundings," says Grimes. The new food menu will feature Brazier hot food items and Dairy Queen frozen dairy dessert treats, including the new Blizzard product.

Grimes, who has been in the foodservice industry for more than 21 years, is a franchisee of American Dairy Queen Corporation, and he is the owner of three Dairy Queen stores in Texas.

His involvement in foodservice includes being president of the Louisiana Restaurant Association and on its Board of Directors for the past six years. Grimes was also past

Interest on refunds must be reported

JACKSON— Taxpayers should keep in mind that interest received on their tax refunds is income and must be reported on their tax returns.

Interest received on tax refunds is income just like interest earned by taxpayers on bank accounts, U.S. Treasury Bonds, and U.S. Savings Bonds, to name a few.

The amount of interest received from all sources should be tallied and entered on the interest income line of Forms 1040, 1040A or 1040EZ. Taxpayers should keep in mind that interest income totalling more than $400 cannot be reported on Form 1040EZ. They must use Form 1040 or Form 1040A.

ALCOHOLICS DON'T SUFFER BY THEMSELVES...

THE WHOLE FAMILY SUFFERS.

It's not an unusual story. Take a successful individual who has everything going for him. Great family, promising career and life's daily problems he tries to solve with alcohol — and sometimes drugs. Eventually, his problems will grow to include chemical dependency. Can his family handle that?

What about the successful business woman? She's attractive, personable — and an alcoholic. Her favorite hobby — drinking martini's at lunch and after work. How long can she stay on top? Her home life as a wife and mother has already turned into a nightmare for her family.

ALCOHOLICS DON'T SUFFER ALONE.

At GULF OAKS HOSPITAL & CLINIC, chemical dependency is viewed as a family illness and recovery for the entire family is considered essential. If a family member or close friend is destroying their life by alcohol or drug indulgence, they need help. Professional medical help. At GULF OAKS, family involvement is an integral part of our program. Team members work with the family to help them understand the patient's problem as an illness.

Consumer Update on Housing

By Janet K. Lukens
Coast Consumer
Management Center
Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Amendment effect on housing

The initial reaction of the housing industry to the Gramm-Rudman was joyous since the administration needed to balance the federal budget in order to eliminate the annual deficits.

Then, hopefully mortgage interest rates would stabilize. We have already seen what the administration would do if given a free reign to reduce the budget.

Examples include: selling the Federal Housing eliminating almost all of the federal housing assistance, the development grants and other housing oriented program; and closing the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The plans to sell FHA have been withdrawn from the budget for fiscal year 1987, but it is expected that the budget will call for a study of the proposal. Also, the Reagan Administration is expected to propose the dismantling of HUD sometime between now and the end of 1988.

The Median Priced House
It has been seven years since the typical family could afford to buy the median priced house. That changed in December, according to the National Association of Realtors, when the family with the median income ($27,940) could qualify for an 80 percent mortgage on the median priced existing house ($74,800).

One obvious reason for the greater affordability is continued declines in interest rates. A seasonally related reason is that the median priced house has fallen 3 percent since July. How much does home maintenance cost?

You should expect to spend 1/2 percent to 1 percent of the total value of your house on repairs in the first one to five years. After that, costs rise to about 1 percent of the home's worth every 12 months.

Veterans to get redesigned checks

Veterans benefit checks will take on a new look beginning April 1, according to Samuel J. Maraman, Jackson VA Regional Office Director.

A lightweight paper check will replace the familiar green punched-card check issued by the federal government for the past 40 years.

The change is part of a national conversion to paper checks being implemented by the U.S. Department of Treasury.

Over four million checks each month go to veterans, spouses and dependent children in compensation, pension, educational or insurance benefit payments. Bi-weekly paychecks for Veterans Administration employees around the country will also take on the new look.

The change to paper checks was made because of changes in technology which made the punched-card check system obsolete. The new check, which contains more than a dozen security features, is more difficult to alter or counterfeit, according to Treasury officials.

The check's design features a full-length reproduction of the Statue of Liberty on the left hand and a muted close-up of the Statue's head and torch on the right. The check's colors range from light blue to pale peach with the letters "USA" creating a background pattern.

Maraman stated that many veterans and VA employees will not notice the change since 37 percent of those receiving compensation or pension benefits and 47 percent of the employees get their money via electronic transfer, a program strongly encouraged by the VA.

The government issues 600 million checks annually. Social Security payments and Internal Revenue Service tax refunds were previously converted. Payments for Supplemental Security Income, Railroad Retirement, Civil Service Retirement and other federal employees will also change to the new check on April 1.

Special publicity efforts are being made to alert government check recipients to the change to avoid confusion.

For further assistance and information veterans and widows may contact the Jackson VA Regional Office between the hours of 7:30 and 4:30 Monday through Friday. The statewide toll-free number is 1-800-682-5270.

Board awards Oge 3-year contract

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
With a 3-2 vote, the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees decided Wednesday to give a three-year contract to the district's new superintendent.

In a special meeting Betty Diboll, school board president, said she would like the board to offer Dr. Roger Oge who was recently selected to serve as district superintendent a contract that would show the board's "good faith."

Board member L. D. Carter's first motion for a three-year contract died for a lack of a second.

Cyril Glover next moved for a two-year contract which was seconded by Linda Penrose. Board members Carter and Reginald Robinson voted against the motion and Diboll stepped down as president to vote "no" and break the tie.

Diboll told the board that she felt a precedent had been set when the board awarded a three-year contract to retiring Superintendent J. D. McCulloch two years ago.

She also said that she had talked with Oge concerning the number of years in the contract and he had stated that a three-year contract would be acceptable.

Carter then repeated his motion which Robinson seconded. The vote was 2-2 again before Diboll voted yes to break the tie.

Also at the meeting the board voted unanimously to reimburse Oge for expenses incurred for visiting in the school district for the next three months.

ETV Brief

JURY ROOM

For the first time ever, "Frontline" with Judy Woodruff on ETV observes 12 men and women inside a jury room as they weigh facts, ponder evidence and debate the meaning of justice.

"Inside the Jury Room" can be seen at 9 p.m. Tuesday, April 8, on Mississippi ETV.

"Technically, the man is guilty. Guilty as sin," says a juror considering the case of Leroy Reed, a 42-year-old convicted felon on trial for illegal possession of a gun.

"I don't care what the law says," blurts another juror. "Has justice been done?"

Reed served seven years in prison. Clean for 11 years, he spots a magazine ad for a mail-order private detective course. He enrolls. First he receives a badge, then he buys a gun.

He hangs around the courthouse watching detectives at work. He is asked one day for identification. For an unknown reason, he produces the sales slip for the .22 caliber pistol. Authorities order him to go home and get the gun. When he brings it in, he is arrested and held in jail.

Gex investiture set for April 16

An investiture ceremony for U.S. District Court Judge Walter J. Gex III will be 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 16, at the U.S. Courthouse in Biloxi.

Gex, a native of Bay St. Louis, was recommended to fill a newly created judicial post last year by Senator Thad Cochran. He was later nominated for the judgeship by President Ronald Reagan and was unanimously confirmed by the U.S. Senate in February.

A graduate of University of Mississippi School of Law, Gex practiced in Jackson for nine years with the firm of Satterfield, Shell, Williams and Buford. In 1972 he joined his family firm of Gex, Gex and Phillips in Bay St. Louis.

Gex, 47, has served as president of the Hancock County Bar Association and as a commissioner of the Mississippi State Bar. Prior to assuming his judgeship, he served as attorney for the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and as county representative for the board of directors of Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District.

The public is invited to attend the ceremony. A reception will follow at White Pillars Restaurant, 100 Rodenburg Ave., Biloxi, from 5 p.m. until 7 p.m.

New Orleans Museum of art to feature jewelry collection

The public will have a rare chance to see one of the world's most important assemblages of jewelry during the New Orleans Museum of Art's presentation of 'Objects of Adornment: Five Thousand Years of Jewelry from the Walters Art Gallery, Baltimore.'

The exhibition, on view from April 6 through June 1, is comprised of 213 of the finest pieces from the Gallery's internationally renowned collection of period jewelry.

Ranging from simple stone amulets of the Ancient Near East to Lalique and Tiffany's dramatic twentieth-century creations, Objects of Adornment includes many of the Walters Art Gallery's masterpieces — a magnificent bracelet from the Olbia Treasure, the great Esterhazy Marriage Collar, the celebrated Tiffany Sapphire Iris, and Rene Lalique's striking Tiger Necklace.

Organized by the Walters Art Gallery and the American Federation of the Arts, New York, the exhibition and national tour are supported by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Mabel Pew Myrlyn Trust.

Objects of Adornment is sponsored in New Orleans by Don Boudreaux's Fine Jewelers.

Although the Walters Art Gallery in Baltimore possesses one of the largest and most comprehensive collections of jewelry in the world, it has been virtually unknown to the public.

The jewelry collection was assembled by Henry Walters (1848-1931), a railroad magnate and avid collector, who admired fine workmanship in small and precious objects.

Between 1893 and 1931 Walters purchased hundreds of examples of historical jewelry thus adding to the collections of his father, William Walters, which had concentrated on European painting and sculpture as well as Oriental porcelains.

Upon the death of Henry Walters, the Walters Collection was bequeathed to the City of Baltimore. Prior to the Walters Art Gallery's construction of a new wing in 1974, eighty percent of the collection remained in storage.

Since that time, the world has become increasingly aware of the importance of the Walters Collection of which jewelry constitutes a major strength.

According to Dr. Robert P. Bergman, director of the Walters Art Gallery, "the jewelry selected for this exhibition represents the chronological range of Henry Walters' collecting."

Included in the traveling exhibition are works from the Ancient Near Eastern, Egyptian, Etruscan, Greek, Roman, Byzantine, Migration and Medieval periods.

Pieces from the Renaissance through the early twentieth-century are also included in this exhibition. Walters' patronage of contemporary artists is exemplified by "en bloc" purchases of Lalique at the 1904 St. Louis Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

The American Federation of the Arts has produced, in association with the Walters Art Gallery, a soft-bound catalogue with approximately 250 black and white illustrations and twenty-five color plates. The catalogue also includes essays on the historical periods represented in the exhibition, comprehensive entries on each work and a glossary of jewelry terms.

Both the catalogue and a full-color poster image of the Tiffany Sapphire Iris are available in the Museum Shop.

In addition to the large selection of personal ornaments in Objects of Adornment, jewelry from NOMA's permanent collection is on view in the second-floor decorative arts cases through June 1, 1986.

Hancock County Homemaker Council

The Homemakers Council of Hancock County recently arranged an interesting program entitled 'Back to Nature,' which was presented by Daney Jackson, 4-H agent; David Watts, county forester; and Lee Taylor, county agent, on March 26 at the Waveland Library.

Jackson's subject was 'Know Your Trees,' identifying various trees from leaves and the difference between evergreens and deciduous trees.

We learned the cottonwood is the fastest growing tree in Mississippi.

Watts showed slides that documented 'Famous and Historic Trees' throughout the state, identified and associated with different historical events and subjects.

We were reminded by Taylor of habitat loss with modern progress and changes in our environment and were encouraged to give our wildlife and birds a helping hand.

He demonstrated the construction of squirrel nests from discarded auto tires and gave out plans and specifications for blue bird houses and other bird houses.

In all, it was a very interesting experience and we wish to thank these people for their time and efforts in our behalf.

Female farmers find work rewarding

By Karen L. Moore
Cooperative
Extension Service

For Margie Atkisson, Boyen Coats, Ellen Blocker and Dorothy Butts, managing a farm full-time poses no insurmountable problem.

The advantages of being the boss, seeing results and meeting a challenge are some of the reasons these women and others like them are taking on farm responsibilities.

Although farming has been and still is a traditionally male occupation, the picture is slowly changing. U.S. Department of Agriculture figures show that 128,000 of the nation's 2.5 million farms are operated solely or primarily by women, more than double the figure 10 years ago.

The four Mississippi women are perceived as role models among other young farmers, both male and female, and all four encourage farm wives to become more active in the farm.

However, the four have not reached their present status without problems, including people who refuse to recognize their management ability.

For Margie Atkisson of New Hebron, in Jefferson Davis County, managing a beef herd has proven to be rewarding even though she never expected to be doing it alone. Her husband Ben died more than four years ago after operating their Beefmaster breeding business 16 years.

The last two years of his life Mrs. Atkisson, at age 56, became more active in the management of the farm.

"I saw that he couldn't be as active after having a stroke so I decided I had to learn everything I could," Mrs. Atkisson said.

She did have a buyer for the operation but the deal fell through because of high interest rates. She is glad she kept the operation.

Being a woman in a traditional male field did present a problem at first. She said some of her customers tried to take advantage of her right after her husband died.

"But they soon learned I knew what I was talking about," Mrs. Atkisson said.

She didn't have problems getting credit from her bank or coop because people knew her from when she and her husband had dealt with them.

Mrs. Atkisson praised County Extension Agent James Richmond for his advice when she first began managing on her own. Now she doesn't have to rely on others as much for advice.

Persistence has also been the key for Rankin County muscadine grower Boyen Coats. She started her one-acre operation as a hobby. It is now a full-fledged commercial venture that includes 18 acres.

"I didn't know anything about growing muscadines when I started," said Ms. Coats, who started the muscadines after rearing her three children and as a diversion from her teaching at Jackson State University. "There were people who were very skeptical of my ability."

She also said she found the Extension Service very helpful in managing her vineyard.

"The county agent told me exactly what to expect," Ms. Coats said. "People in Extension marketing also helped me with promoting the use of muscadines in restaurants in the state."

Ms. Coats said her biggest problem is her lack of muscle. But she still likes to do as many things for herself as she can.

She believes being a farmer who is female has more advantages than disadvantages. She said people have been very helpful when she asks for assistance.

"I don't mind admitting I don't know how to put something together," Ms. Coats said.

She said she likes the "immediate gratification" farming gives and seeing the results sooner than she can in teaching.

Ellen Blocker, a 30-year-old hog farmer in Oktibbeha County, began managing the hog part of her and her husband's farm in 1980 when he decided to manage other aspects of the farm.

When she first started she did more of the actual physical work of caring for the baby pigs. Now her role is more managing labor and delegating authority.

"It was a difficult thing to learn to see that things got done, as opposed to doing them myself," Mrs. Blocker said. "I am a perfectionist and I had to learn to let go of minute details."

Her efforts have paid off. In 1985 she was recognized as Oktibbeha County's 'Farmer of the Year' and was named 'Pork All-American' for Mississippi. She is the second woman in the U.S. to receive the Pork All-American award.

She doesn't worry because she can't lift 80-pound feed sacks. She attributes her success to her "thinking smart" attitude. Although she finds she must continually prove herself to those who doubt a woman's ability to farm, some of her neighbors now call her for advice before they call a veterinarian.

Dorothy Butts of Warren County also got into farming with the death of her husband. They farmed together from 1941 until his unexpected death in 1964.

She thought about renting her farm of row crops and cattle but didn't think the income would be enough to support her and her two children. She decided to run the farm herself, and four years later began to grow cotton.

"I love the challenge of making the right decisions at the right time," Mrs. Butts said. "I also make more money on cotton than on cattle."

She has found that some people still refuse to recognize her management ability even though she has one of the highest cotton yields in the county.

"When some people find out I have a good yield of cotton or good cattle, they attribute it to good land or to good help," she said. "But I always say I have the same land as my neighbors."

Attitudes toward her are changing. She credits the change to several successful crops and changing ideas about women's roles in society.

She describes her greatest challenge as making a better crop than she had the previous year. She said she's never had a complete crop failure.

Mrs. Butts does regret not being able to expand like she wanted to, but points out that farmers who expanded too much are the ones in trouble.

"I can sleep at night, knowing I don't have to worry about paying back crop loans," she said. She has not had to pay a crop note in 12 years.

"A woman should have some plans made if something happens to her husband," Mrs. Butts said. "A woman can carry on if she is interested."

Foucha-Ladner

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church was the setting for the March 8 afternoon marriage of Shannon Ann Ladner of Waveland and James Morris Foucha Jr. of Bay St. Louis. The Rev. Charles Venus officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Alvin J. Ladner of Lakeland, Fla. and Mrs. Kay Johnson of Waveland. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James M. Foucha Sr. of Bay St. Louis.

Nuptial music was presented by organist Mrs. John McKenna and soloist Donna Smith, both of Bay St. Louis.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of pale ivory satin with mandarin collar and sheer yoke of English net on a Victorian bodice appliqued with venise lace. The Juliet puffed sleeves were of satin and English net with satin piping wrist closure. The slightly basque waistline gave way to a full flared skirt with chapel sweep train.

She wore a Mary Queen of Scots hat decorated with venise lace which featured a pouf of illusion and waist length veil.

The bride carried a cascade of silk candlelight roses, blossom spray jasmine, mauve sweetheart roses, jubilee gyp and seed pearls with picot ribbon.

Candy Murphy of Bay St. Louis, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Stacen Ladner of Waveland, sister of the bride, Belinda Mitchell and Donna Arnold, both of Bay St. Louis.

The attendants were identically attired in gowns of daphne rose satin, each with sweetheart neckline, full puffed sleeves, fitted bodice with satin sash at the waist and full, flared skirts. They carried hand bouquets of mauve silk roses, mauve orange blossoms, jubilee gyp and mauve streamers and wore hair ornaments of mauve orange blossom and jubilee gyp.

Miss Brianna Murphy of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She carried a basket of mauve blossoms. Ring bearer was Bobby Foucha, cousin of the groom. Johnny Foucha of Bay St. Louis, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Jimmy Reviere and Richie Geotz, both of Waveland; and Andy Foucha of Bay St. Louis, brother of the groom.

Ushers were Bryan Foucha, brother of the groom, and Lance Rhiner, both of Bay St. Louis.

A reception followed the ceremony at St. Clare parish hall in Waveland. Decorations included baskets of flowers in shades of pink and rose, designed by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Rodgers Nowlin.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Norman Koonce of Bogalusa, La. and Mrs. Phillip Koonce of Jackson, Miss.

On return from a wedding trip to New Orleans, the couple resides in Waveland.

Narcotics News

Donald Butler
Director
Bureau of Narcotics

Q. I know growing marijuana is against the law, but what is the penalty?

(L. C. Bolton, MS)

A. The penalty for manufacturing marijuana is severe. Marijuana production is a felony. Upon conviction a person may be sentenced to a maximum of thirty years imprisonment, and/or fined up to $1 million.

That is the most a convicted felon can receive for manufacturing of marijuana, however sentencing varies from case to case due to the circumstances involved and to the decision of sentencing made by the judge.

If you would like to ask a question, address it to: Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics, P. O. Box 6462, Jackson, MS, 39212.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, as all Americans of reasons and conscience unanimously agree, this nation's most precious asset is that which we and, for that matter, all of humanity worldwide, most zealously guard and cherish beyond all else—the living extensions of ourselves and our country's primary entitlement to the future—our children; and

WHEREAS, while we understandably rain down upon these, our irreplaceable children, all of our love and affection, patience and forbearance, and hopes, and aspirations, there are others who, to our bewilderment, inflict grave injury, both physical and psychological, upon their offspring; and

WHEREAS, this societal malignancy called child abuse and neglect respects no racial, class, or geographic boundary, and, in fact, has reached epidemic proportions in nearly all regions of our nation; and WHEREAS, the arrest and ultimate elimination of this damaging and sometimes deadly disease cannot be achieved without the full and total support of every responsible and compassionate American;

NOW, THEREFORE, as Mayor of City of Waveland, I hereby proclaim that the entire month of April, 1986, shall be observed as Child Abuse Prevention Month, and I urge all citizens to utilize this period to learn to better understand, recognize, and respond to this previous problem;

AND, FURTHER, I commend the Exchange Club of Hancock County for providing such information to our people and urge full public support of their successful effort, in concert with all other Exchange Clubs in America and their Child Abuse Prevention Foundation, to establish a nationwide network of Child Abuse Prevention Centers where abusing parents and their children are at last finding new hope and effective help.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the City of Waveland on this 6 day of April, 1986.

JOHN LONGO, JR., MAYOR

JENNY WON'T BE HOME TONIGHT

Her father will be waiting up for her. But, unlike many times before, she won't dash in with reports of a wonderful evening. Her friends invited her to go to a party after the party. She hesitated because the driver had been drinking, but what could be wrong with one trip through town? Besides she needed a ride home. If only she could have called her parents...

Approximately 26 teenagers will be killed this year in Mississippi by drinking and driving or riding with someone who does. It's your choice.

ORDINANCE NO. 17

AN ORDINANCE PROHIBITING THE USE OF STEEL JAW TRAPS WITHIN THE CITY LIMITS OF THE CITY OF WAVELAND, MISSISSIPPI.

WHEREAS, the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Waveland has been apprised of the significant public concern over the use of steel jaw traps within the City of Waveland by persons trapping small animals; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Waveland finds that the use of steel jaw traps within the City of Waveland poses an unreasonable danger both to children and to pets; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Waveland finds that the use of steel jaw traps is cruel to wildlife and that it produces a high incidence of maiming and serious injury to such wildlife; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Waveland finds that the typical pattern of use of steel jaw traps involves the placement of hidden traps, set to engage and capture any person or animal that should step upon the traps; such traps typically are used to identify ownership; and that the pattern of their placement, setting and use is such that it is usually impossible, even with diligent inquiry to determine the ownership and responsibility for any steel jaw trap found within the City of Waveland.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND ALDERMEN OF THE CITY OF WAVELAND, MISSISSIPPI, THAT:

Section 1: Statement of purpose. The purpose of this Ordinance is to prohibit the setting and use of steel jaw traps within the City of Waveland, and to provide an effective penalty to prevent the setting and use of the same, and to provide for the impoundment, rendering safe, and removal of any steel jaw trap found within the city limits of the City of Waveland.

Section 2: The phrase "steel jaw trap" as used throughout this Ordinance refers to any apparatus for the trapping and seizure of wild animals and/or game where said apparatus involves:

a. A clamping mechanism adapted to clamp a limb or a part of the body of an animal; and

b. A locking or securing mechanism adapted to prevent or render difficult the re-opening of the clamping mechanism.

Section 3: It shall be unlawful for any person to set, emplace, or use a steel jaw trap within the city limits of the City of Waveland. Placement of a steel jaw trap in a location accessible to a member of the public, a pet, or a wild animal shall be an offense under this provision, whether or not the trap is attended and whether or not the trap, at the time it is found, is found to be in either a cocked or a sprung position.

Section 4: Any person violating this Ordinance shall be subject to a fine of Fifty and No/100 Dollars ($50.00) for the first offense, and One Hundred and No/100 Dollars ($100.00) for the second offense of this Ordinance, and, in addition thereto, any trap found set, or placed in violation of this Ordinance shall be forfeited to the City of Waveland.

Section 5: Any trap found set in violation of this Ordinance shall be impounded by the Police Department of the City of Waveland, and, unless claimed within thirty (30) days of the impoundment shall be forfeited and shall be disposed of as scrap material according to law.

The above and foregoing Ordinance was introduced and read by the Clerk was introduced by Alderman Rappold, seconded by Alderman Yarbrough, and was adopted by the following roll call votes, to-wit:

YEAS: All.

NAYS: None.

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen hereby declare the motion carried and the Ordinance adopted this 1 day of April, 1986.

Does your IRA earn 9.10%?

With new Zero Coupon Certificates from Hancock Bank your IRA could be earning 9.10% effective annual yield.

That's right. Buy a $1,000 Zero Coupon Certificate from Hancock Bank with your IRA funds. You'll have over $1,500 in just five short years.

That's a higher rate than T-Bills, Treasury Notes, or many other certificates. But just like other certificates, Zero Coupon Certificates are guaranteed up to $100,000 by the FDIC. And, you still get all the tax breaks you get with any other IRA investment.

It takes as little as $1,000 to purchase a Zero Coupon Certificate. There are no extra fees. And you can use your existing IRA funds to purchase additional Certificates.

Of course, a Zero Coupon Certificate takes five years to mature. That's a little longer than other certificates. But for the smart investor who wants his IRA money to work overtime, few investments offer the ease of management and super-high yields of these new Zero Coupon Certificates.

Call Mae Beth Tracy at 868-4406 and find out how easy it is to put your money to work at 9.10%, with Zero Coupon Certificates from Hancock Bank.
